Description

Lagomarsino is a large petroglyph site, a quarter of a mile in length, containing 2229 rock art panels located on an east-west trending, fine-grained basalt cliff and associated talus slope below. This trail starts right off of Cartwright Road in the Virginia City Highlands and ends at the site.

Recommendations / Other Info

A small lift will help a lot here, as there are many washouts and some rocks to navigate. It can be done in a stock Jeep with some finesse though.
